Partners working together, advancing safety excellence in the New Jersey construction industry, protecting workers and the community.

www.buildsafenj.org

BuildSafe NJ is an organization made up of construction managers, general contractors, subcontractors, insurance companies, consultants, unions, and government bodies (OSHA and NJ LWD) whose goal it is to see a consistency brought to safety in NJ.

Most safety professionals will tell you that safety performance varies greatly from job to job, company to company, and sometimes even day to day. This fluctuation makes it not only dangerous to workers on jobsites, but more difficult for organizations to plan their safety and enforce their policies.

BuildSafe NJ's goal is to provide a resource to all construction related companies and organizations in the state of NJ, regardless of size or financial resources. This vision, developed in late 2006 by Joanne Dean formerly of Gale Construction, Tom Kerns of Bovis LendLease, David Korman of Skanska, and Dave Collins of Turner Construction, has been the driving force behind the growth of the organization.

BuildSafe NJ is supported by over 90 organizations and growing. The benefits to members (see next panel) continue to increase as well. We hope you will become a part of this growth!
